

Tech pack design images are widely used in the garment industry, and our factories are located around the world. Since our clients and colleagues are international, effective communication in our daily work has become increasingly important. The attachment is a sample tech pack image. Please translate all text that you consider necessary into Chinese.

1. Please identify the challenges involved in completing this task and provide your algorithm design in diagram form.
2. Please create an open-source project on GitHub (or any accessible platform) and provide runnable code—preferably using Docker—to demonstrate your system design.
3. Notes:
  - a. In the techpack_img(attachment), there is a small section called “design pack image.” This graphic must remain unchanged, as it will appear on the garment exactly as shown. However, its position may vary in different tech pack designs.
  - b. You may use APIs for the translation component or provide your own model.
